CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Meeting of the Board of Directors Yesterday.

CITRUS FAIR PREMIUMS.

"The Times" Annual Indorsed—Report of the Committee on Legislation—Dr. Widney's Resignation—Routine Business.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce met yesterday afternoon. Directors J. H. Book, W. E. Hughes, J. Mills Davies, V. Ponet, R. McGarvin, J. A. Anderson, W. H. Toler, E. German and G. R. Shatto present.

The Committee on Laws and Legislation reported adversely to the framing of laws, making a State depository at Los Angeles; appointing a commission to revise the jurisprudence of the State, and making the loser in cases pay all the costs of the suit, including attorneys' fees. The report was adopted.

A request from the bankers' convention for the use of the rooms of the Chamber for the holding of their sessions on March 4, 5 and 6 was granted.

A communication from Representative Vandever, explaining the status of the Pacific Coast Canal bill, was referred. A request from the Elliott Publishing Company that the Chamber assist in collecting matter for a book was granted.

The matter of memorializing Congress in regard to the Nicaragua canal was referred to a committee consisting of Presidents Wells, Judge Anderson and E. German.

The resignation of Dr. J. P. Widney as chairman of the Committee of Commerce was accepted and further action deferred for a week.

The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, This Board of Directors has learned with pleasure that the Times-Mirror Company is about ready to send an additional 5000 copies of its admirable annual trade edition to Chicago; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce earnestly commends to the favorable consideration of the merchants and citizens of Los Angeles the desirability of still further extending the circulation of this valuable edition.

The matter of obtaining subscriptions was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Upon motion of Mr. Davies, the secretary was requested to ask Representative Vandever to designate the Los Angeles Public Library as a United States Depository for Government Publications.

It was decided to meet hereafter on Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock.

THE CITRUS FAIR.

The Executive Committee of the Citrus Fair for the Sixth Congress District met last night at the Chamber of Commerce, Maj. E. W. Jones, C. W. Woods, J. W. Cook and Superintendent Hance in command.

It was reported that meetings are being held all over the district for organization for the exhibit, and that in many localities premiums are being offered for the best designs. In Ontario, for instance, a premium has been offered for the best design. At a meeting at Santa Ana, the Orange County people decided to raise $1000 for putting in a grand exhibit. A meeting was held at San Diego Tuesday, and it was decided there to make an extra effort for a fine display. The growers at Pomona are preparing to send in a fine display. Both Riverside and Redlands are working on the displays.

The fair was instructed to invite a number of prominent people to deliver addresses and to invite the Governor and his staff, the State Legislature, the State Boards of Agriculture and Horticulture to be present.

It was decided to invite designs for the best plan for general decorations of the fair, and to offer a prize of $25 for the best.

A number of other matters were discussed, together with excursion rates and fares.

The premiums for artistic designs are as follows: First, $150; second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $50, and fifth, $25.

The Petrified Man.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 29.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Will you be so kind as to give us something rational on the subject of petrifications? Your reporter's story read very smoothly as to the probable manner of its formation; that it was probably buried in sand; that the sand was moist and compacted into a mould, etc.; that in the course of time this mould and the body both dried out and the body crumbled into dust, leaving a perfect mould to be afterward filled in by a further flood and infiltration. Now, this would be quite plausible, except for the consideration of some minor details. We do not find bodies among any class of people buried without wraps, or clothing of some kind. We find in nearly all burials relics of more durable substance than human flesh and bones, and yet we have never found in any human form of petrification any semblance of clothing or apparel, utensils or ornaments. Invariably it is the perfection of human form. In your reporter's theory of forming a mould, that mould would take the form of any foreign substance as well. There are no indications of any such thing in this nor in any of several similar specimens I have seen. Yet this is in consonance with the "flat" of the scientists, that there is no petrification of human flesh. I am not prepared to contradict this as I know no more about it than they do, but if there is no petrification of human flesh there is something closely akin to it. There is a perfection in the result of petrification that appears to me could be arrived at in no other way, and a fullness that indicates that the change takes place in advance of natural decay. I had the opportunity of a leisurely examination of a part of a petrified body in the possession of a magistrate in E. Paso, Tex., which he had found in a cut in the Rio Grande River near his house.

The part in his possession consisted of the headless trunk of a boy of 16 or 17 years of age, both arms broken off, leaving a stump of about four inches of each, perhaps three inches of the neck, and the body broken just at the lower ribs. The body had unquestionably laid in the water while all the muscles were relaxed and the limbs at liberty to be moved about by the current, as one arm was raised as though over the face, while the other was apparently lying loose at the side. Petrification had set in before natural decay or the filling of the body with natural gases, as the trunk was in perfect symmetry and condition. What represented the skin was as smooth to the touch as would be the human skin, and the form perfect in all its details. The raising of the right shoulder, the hollow under the arm, the drawing of the chest muscles to that side, the hollow in the center of the chest, ribs just visible, and the quiet repose of the opposite side was life, or rather death itself. Not a death that disfigures, but that death that makes death more lifelike than life itself.

The body was a light gray and fine in grain and apparently of silt, or "slickens" hardened. At the broken sections of the arms and neck, it was uniform in color and had the appearance of broken putty, but finer in grain. It showed no signs of a difference between bone and flesh. But at the lower part there was a marked difference in appearance. Where it was broken off, it had broken unevenly and a piece like the lobe of the liver protruded at least a half inch and showed a marked difference in color, and the rounded outline exactly the form of the front side of the liver. On the opposite side was a discolored outline of the base of the heart. No other indications were discernible of any difference of material or in the period of its formation. I saw this myself, examined it thoroughly, and formed my opinion. I place the simple facts before you, and would be glad to hear those of others. Yours, etc.

E. R. F.
WAS HE MR. VEITCH OF VISALIA?

An anonymous correspondent, who signs himself "X. Y. Z." has written

The TIMES to the effect that the stone man, now on exhibition in this city, to his knowledge and belief is no other person than one Jason W. Veitch, who in the early days of California resided at Visalia, this State, and who was in the dry goods business. "X. Y. Z." claims that Veitch died of typhoid fever, while inspecting some mines, and was buried by a couple of ignorant miners. The correspondent is very mysterious, but if there are any relatives or friends of the man (if such a man ever existed,) a letter to THE TIMES concerning him might elicit further information.

Out Partridge Hunting.

"Did you ever go a partridge hunting, and tramp all day through the brush, tear your clothes half off, get wetter'n a drowned rat, fall in the mud and never see so much as a feather?" queried a well known gunner.

"No, indeed. When and where did all this happen?"

"Up in Sardinia the other day. Ed Andrews, the crack shot of that town, invited me to come up there and go shooting, claiming that the birds were thicker in the woods along Cattaraugus creek than honey bees in a sweet clover patch. Of course I went; but I came home all broke up."

"And you didn't get a feather?"

"Nary a one. Tried to shoot a chicken on a hen roost, but the farmer caught me at it and chased me four miles without a let up. Andrews killed a chipping bird and a red squirrel, that's all."

"But you brought home some birds?"

"Very true, I bought them on the market, the same as the other Buffalo boys do. Let's see, it cost me about $20 in cash, and I've got to buy a new suit of clothes and a new hat. Bet your boots I don't go partridge shooting again. Tired? I can't walk; am lame all over, and feel like a second edition scarecrow. Andrews walked me all over four towns; wanted me to invest in real estate, too, and all that; talked about their great race track and the metropolitan Sardinia city of 1900, and filled me so full of glorious enthusiasm that my head is cracked from ear to ear. Fun? Well, I should snicker, but one dose will last the lifetime of Methuselah!"—Buffalo Commercial.

An Historical Oak.

Relics from southern battlefields are still finding their way to the north, and they excite a good deal of interest among the veterans. At the office of Frederick E. Hovey there has arrived a section of an oak tree about 44 feet long and 12 inches through. It was purchased as a relic from a farmer at Chickamauga for $8, and he secured another dollar for carrying it to the railroad, nine miles away. It was shipped July 10, and should have arrived here weeks ago, but the car was sidetracked during the strikes and did not arrive here until this month. This piece of oak is deeply imbedded with shells. There are two whole shells partly visible and fourteen small pieces. The cap on one of these shells is three inches in diameter, and a few letters can be deciphered on it which might tell its make. The pieces have grown in and are partly covered by the gnarled oak. This tree stood very close to the headquarters of Gen. Thomas on Sept. 19, 1863, at the battle of Chickamauga.—Providence Journal.

What Good Clothes Will Do.

The proprietors of an up town clothing store have adopted a novel method of soliciting trade. They have hired a man who has long been familiar to every one in their neighborhood as a ragged, disreputable looking fellow, clothed him in a handsome full dress suit, furnished him with a beaver, a finely lined shirt and everything else that a man accustomed to dress well could possibly need, and turned him loose to distribute neat advertising cards about the neighborhood. He usually wears some fresh flowers pinned to the lapel of his coat, and as he goes about distributing his cards strikes people who have known him and scorned him for so many years as a remarkable example of what good clothing will do.—New York Tribune.

Trick of a Surgeon.

A strange accident occurred on the steamer Columbia near Reeder's landing a few days ago. John Bernard, a surgeon fisherman, was hauling in a huge fish, when it suddenly took a run, and before he could get clear of the line he was dragged overboard and came near drowning before assistance could reach him. Bernard is a brother to the man who was run down and drowned from a fishing boat by the steamer S. G. Reed about two years ago, and was in the boat at the time his brother was drowned. By a strange coincidence the accident occurred at exactly the same place where the fatality occurred two years ago.—Astria (Ore.) Columbian.

A Wagon Load of Gold.

The banks are getting down to hard pan, and nobody realizes it more keenly than a Holyoke real estate broker who sold a piece of property to the Roman Catholic church authorities in this city. He received a check for $1,100 from Bishop O'Reilly on a Springfield bank and presented it for payment. The teller could not pay him in bills and urged him to take a certificate of deposit, which, however, he would not have. Consequently he was obliged to get an express wagon and a number of soap boxes to convey to Holyoke the metal which he received. He got $600 in gold coin and 300 silver dollars. Safely in Holyoke with his precious load, he could not induce his bank to take it, and has been forced to pay the coin out in the transaction of business.—Springfield Homestead.

He Weighed 504 Pounds.

Dr. Charles T. Bean died at his home in Chelsea recently of pneumonia. A few years ago he was obliged to abandon outdoor practice on account of growing obesity, and has been confined to his home. His general health has been fair and his mind not impaired. His unnatural corpulence, which amounted to a disease, steadily increased, however, and a short time since he turned the scales at the enormous weight of 504 pounds.—Boston Herald.

This is Scotch humor on a cross with American, being from the Scottish-American: The most bashful girl ever heard of was the young lady who blushed when she was asked if she had not been courting sleep.

THE LADIES DELIGHTED.

The pleasant effect and the perfect safety with which ladies may use the liquid fruit laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, make it their favorite remedy. It is pleasing to the eye and to the taste, gentle yet effectual in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

The body was a light gray and fine in grain and apparently of silt, or "slickens" hardened. At the broken sections of the arms and neck, it was uniform in color and had the appearance of broken putty, but finer in grain.

It showed no signs of a difference between bone and flesh. But at the lower part there was a marked difference in appearance. Where it was broken off, it had broken unevenly and a piece like the lobe of the liver protruded at least a half inch and showed

REMARKABLE CURES MADE BY DR. WONG! AT HIS SANITARIUM.

713 S. Main St., Los Angeles, Cal.

The secret of DR. WONG'S Remarkable Cures over other Chinese Physicians is due to the fact that he represents the fifth generation of eminent and learned Physicians, all of whom graduated with highest honors from the leading medical schools of China, and all received the Emperor's signature to their diplomas, thus appointing them physicians to the royalty. These secrets in medical science discovered and possessed only by them, have been perpetuated and handed down from father to son. DR. Wong is a direct descendant from the following great physicians: His father, DR. Wong Tung, was a son of Wong Gim, whose father's name was Wong Jin, the great Chinese botanist, who was a son of Wong Que, who was the greatest physician of his day. It was Wong Jin, who, after discovering great medicinal properties of several hundreds of roots, herbs, barks, leaves, etc., which, up to this time were unknown, published a number of books on the subject, some of which are now in the possession of DR. Wong of Los Angeles, and are over 250 years old.

THE death of Secretary Windom, at a Delmonico's banquet in New York last night, was very sudden and will be generally regretted. Death has been terribly busy among our public men of late. The business of nineteenth-century civilization is carried on at an awful cost of life and health.

ANOTHER edition of the Annual Trade Number of THE TIMES, consisting of 3000 copies, was printed yesterday. The papers are destined for the Southern California Exhibit in Chicago, and have been supplied through the liberality of a number of enterprising citizens who mean to keep Los Angeles at the front in the great metropolis of the West.

SAN DIEGO is congratulating itself upon a "drizzling, soaking, all-pervasive and blessed rain." Wish we had the same here, but we hasten to make note of the occurrence, lest the San Diego papers shroud charge us with suppressing news favorable to that city. How they would have howled, had the rain fallen in Los Angeles and not in San Diego!

THE SAN DIEGO Sun has hit upon an expedient to increase its circulation. It promises three prizes to the new boys making the biggest street sales from February to July—a gold watch, a nickel-plated banjo and a baseball outfit. The Sun is evidently determined to take the shine out of its contemporaries, even if it has to knock people down to make them take the paper.

In the list of the populations of California cities, forwarded from Washington several weeks ago, Fresno was accidentally omitted. A corrected list shows the population of that city to be 10,815. Ten years ago Fresno did not figure among the cities of over 5000 population. It is undoubtedly destined to be the leading city of the San Joaquin Valley and a place of great commercial importance.

STORIES of brutality to private soldiers in the German army, on the part of commissioned and non-commissioned officers, are constantly cropping up. The wonder is how an intelligent people like the Germans can continue to stand this system of military slavery. Be it remembered that the ranks of the German army are recruited, not from the prisons and slums, but from the ranks of solid citizens, for all have to serve. And this is how they are treated.

Recently a sergeant of the Third Uhlan Regiment of guards at Potsdam, angered by a private's failure to drill properly, gave him a cuffing and then ordered six men to spit in the offender's face. Five obeyed, but the sixth had the manliness to refuse. The five obedient soldiers were then ordered to spit in the face of their disobedient comrade and did it.

No wonder Germans are anxious to emigrate, to avoid military service.

A SIMPLE SIMON AT SAN DIEGO.

The San Diego Union, referring to the suggestion of THE TIMES that Mr. Stanford will not permit the Legislature to elect Gen. Eli Murray—or any other man, except his own particular choice—United States Senator, declares that it thinks THE TIMES is mistaken, and indulges in some very amusing writing of a "high faute" character against the peculiarly high grade of Mr. Stanford's moral make-up:

The Union says:

The Senator, much as he realizes how many of the people are devoted to him, could not in reason expect that his duplicate is needed or wanted—it would be unfair to suppose that his most devoted admirer could for a moment maintain that the most liberal interpretation of the popular regard for him could contemplate such a quality as the election of Mr. Felton would mean. This would be preposterous to have his prejudices. It would be equally unfair even to imply that he desired or expected other than that which would insure to the highest welfare and satisfaction of all the people, or that he would oppose an impartial election of Senator Hearst from Southern California. It is to be hoped that the Legislature and the people have too much independence, too much sense of propriety, not to see the fitness and the justice of according to Southern California an honor possessed so many years exclusively by the North. Senator Stanford is not just and fair in his access to Senator Hearst from Southern California. It is a warm friend of Southern California and of Gen. Murray, and it is altogether probable that the election of the latter would be personally gratifying to him.

Now, to anyone who knows Senator Stanford and his methods, all this is exasperatingly funny. One can imagine how an audible smile will convulse the Senatorial "in-wards" of the portly Palo Alto plutocrat, should he ever get hold of that copy of the San Diego paper, and how Mr. Stow, who runs the Senatorial machine on this coast, will grin as he reads it.

Stanford has laid his plans to capture the Presidency of the United States after the same fashion that he has captured and recaptured the Senatorship. If he considers that the presence of Mr. Felton in the Senate is of more value to him in carrying out that plan than the good will of a few thousand voters in Southern California, to Washington Mr. Felton will go. No power can prevent it—should Senator Hearst die during the session—except the Legislature, and, in view of what has already happened, the person must indeed be simple who believes that body will act otherwise in the premises than as Mr. Stanford orders.

As to the "impartial distribution of Senatorial favors" and the wishes of Southern California, they affect Mr. Stanford just about as much as the buzzing of a mosquito does a rhinoceros.

LOS ANGELES AND SAN FRANCISCO ARCHITECTURE.

San Francisco is going into ecstasies over a new residence which is being erected by A. N. Towne, in the style known as "Bryant Mawr," which is really not a style at all, but an artistic combination of many, its leading principles being honest simplicity in materials—that is, real brick, real wood, real stone, with no sham, no disquising paint or plaster. The style is also distinguished by its turrets, angles, shingles, colored roofs and red brick chimneys. In Los Angeles, during the past half a century, there have been built a few thousand houses, costing from $3,000 to $30,000, have been built in this style. Los Angeles is far ahead of San Francisco in the individuality of its architecture. Up there, ninety per cent. of the houses are of the dry goods box order, covered with an eruption of bay windows. The Palace Hotel is a good example of this style. Perhaps the San Franciscans will now take a few points from Los Angeles and build some attractive middle-class residences that have a character of their own. There is one thing, however, that they cannot imitate—our semi-tropic gardens, with their luxuriant foliage and wealth of bloom. There is not one day of the whole three hundred and sixty-five when a San Francisco citizen can sit in his garden on an evening, after the day's labors are over, and enjoy the balmy air that comes stealing through the heliotrope and honeysuckle.

DE YOUNG AND THE SENATORSHIP.

We published yesterday an extract from the San Francisco Post, giving an account of how Mr. De Young had been seeking the assistance of the Southern Pacific magnates in his Senatorial campaign. The Chronicle came out with a mild denial of the statements made by the Post, but the latter paper is not at all abashed, and returns to the attack as follows:

Mr. De Young is an ingenious gentleman. He can evade an issue with consummate skill. His editorial this morning will stand a long while as a masterpiece of adroit dodging, while it pretends to make a complete denial.

He first states that "he never entered Mr. Stow's office." Nor did the Post state that he did. Now we will be more explicit. He requested an interview with Mr. Stow to solicit his aid to be elected. United States Senator, and met him at Mr. Lloyd's office there.

But Mr. De Young's energy is devoted chiefly to denying the interview with Mr. Crocker. He limits his denial to the statement that he did not send a note requesting audience. He did, however, send word, and had the talk with Col. Crocker, which latter fact he did not confess in his editorial.

Mr. De Young's editorials are full of confession of the truth of the interesting facts printed in yesterday's Post.

HENRY CLEWS, in his latest weekly financial review, has the following to say on the silver question, from the New York bankers' standpoint:

All reports as to the disposition of President Harrison convey positive assurance that the market for silver will be the effect of further increasing the silver circulation, whether in the form of coin or its paper representatives.

This understanding of the President may have the effect of inducing some to vote for more silver who were not pleased with his policy; but all the symptoms point to the probability that it will be fairly possible to pass any bill by a two-thirds majority of both Houses. The crux stage of the question seems to have culminated. The more sober and better-informed judgment on these questions of the Eastern States is rapidly gaining ground; and if New York bankers and merchants were to make their united voices heard, the public opinion would be quickly apparent in a positive revision of sentiment which would make it impossible to get any new silver legislation during the present session of Congress. Still, so long as the question remains unsettled, there is room for doubt; and that doubt rests upon Wall street at the moment.

STORIES of brutality to private soldiers in the German army, on the part of commissioned and non-commissioned officers, are constantly cropping up.

The wonder is how an intelligent people like the Germans can continue to stand this system of military slavery. Be it remembered that the ranks of the German army are recruited, not from the prisons and slums, but from the ranks of solid citizens, for all have to serve. And this is how they are treated.

with very depressing effect. It is not alone, however, the silver question that holds business in suspense. There are other questions of large importance pending before Congress, on which the public are divided into different schools of thought, and these add to the difficulty of defer operations until the national legislature adjourns—always the ardent wish of Wall street in January.

GOV. MARKHAM has again shown his good sense and regard for the interests of the people in advising economy in printing the reports of the various State boards and commissions. It is estimated that from $30,000 to $50,000 can be saved annually in this manner.

The North Carolina Legislature has joined those which have resolved against taking part in the World's Fair, should the Elections Bill become a law. How silly!

MAD MILLIONAIRES.

A rough and tumble fight in the Nevada Bank.

John W. Mackay and C. W. Bonye, who was formerly Mr. Mackay's broker in San Francisco, had a rough-and-tumble fight on Tuesday morning, in the private office of I. W. Hellman of the Nevada Bank. Mr. Bonye was closeted with Mr. Hellman when Mackay entered. What followed is told in detail by the San Francisco Examiner, from which journal we condense the following account:

Mackay halted a moment, and partly drew back as his eyes fell on President Hellman's visitor. It was at this moment that Bonye commenced to turn around to view the intruder. His movement was not made soon enough. Before it was completed Mackay had sprung forward, and Bonye saw stars almost as soon as he saw Mackay, for the old Nevadan landed a terrible right-hander with clenched fist on the left cheek of his ex-broker.

The blow was a staggerer from its force, and coming so unexpectedly, without a word of warning, its effect in this direction was double. Bonye, being in the act of fending about, was not very well poised, and was knocked against the wall and into a heap on the floor.

Neither man wasted breath to any extent in epithets, but expended every ounce of energy at command in battering the other.

It was not a scientific set-to; if it had been the battle would probably have all gone Mackay's way, for he still preserves much of the agility of early days, when he was able to whip half the miners over whom he acted as superintendent. In the wild railyards of the floor of the Nevada Bank president's office, a battlefield which does not afford as much freedom of action as the regulation twenty-four-foot ring, Bonye's superior height, reach and bulk told in his favor and very nearly evened up the telling count made by Mr. Mackay's first two right-handers.

All over the private office the two millionaires roiled in a most undignified manner, paying not the slightest heed to P. R. rules or to overturned chairs, ornaments, desks or freely-flowing ink-bottles. Gouging, biting, kicking, hairpulling, all went, and if the fracas had continued for many minutes longer serious, if not fatal, injuries would undoubtedly have resulted.

President Hellman was the only person in the office during most of the mêlée, and he was totally inadequate to the requirements of the position of referee, time-keeper, seconds and peacekeeper all at once. His efforts were mainly directed to filling the latter position, but his physique was not sufficient to accomplish the task unaided. He grabbed each of the gentlemen in turn, and exerted all his strength to make a separation, only succeeding, however, in tearing off a coat-tail or two and giving one or the other of the combatants a momentary advantage.

Then President Hellman's appeals to help brought in half a dozen clerks, and by detaining three clerks to each man the millionaires were finally separated.

Both were badly scratched and bruised, and, though breathless, the fight was not half taken out of them.

It required more exertion to restrain Mackay than it did Bonye, and the clerks had their hands full to prevent another clash, until two hours were consumed to the Pine-street entrance.

AT WASHINGTON.

The Apportionment Bill Gets Through the Senate.

New York Will Not Be Allowed Increased Representation.

The Silver Pool Investigation Stops for Lack of Witnesses.

Senator Quay Promises to Make Reply to the Charges of Malfeasance—Sickness at the White House.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate—The Senate bill, creating the office of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, was passed. The Senate then proceeded to consideration of the Apportionment Bill. The amendment to increase the representation of Arkansas from six to seven was rejected—Yea 32, nays 33. Messrs. Davis, McMillan, Paddock, Stewart and Washburn voting with the Democrats. The amendment to increase Minnesota's representation by one was rejected—Yea 31, nays 32. Mr. Casey voted with the Democrats, two of whom did not vote. The amendment to increase Missouri's representation by one was rejected. Messrs. Davis, Paddock and Washburn voting with the Democrats, and Messrs. Casey, McMillan and Stewart voting no. The amendment to increase the representation of New York from thirty-four to thirty-five was rejected—29 to 33. Messrs. Davis and Paddock were the only Republicans voting in the affirmative.

Mr. Davis then withdrew the amendment fixing the total number of representatives at 360. Mr. Berry offered an amendment fixing the total number at 359 and giving one more each to Arkansas, Minnesota and New York. It was laid on the table, Messrs. Davis and Washburn voting in the negative.

The bill then passed exactly as it came from the House—Yea 27, nays 24—a strict party vote.

The Senate took up the House bill for the adjustment of the accounts of laborers under the eight-hour law, thus making it unfinished business.

Mr. Blair consented to have it laid aside temporarily for the Army Appropriation Bill. Mr. Gorman objected however, and on motion of Mr. Autiss the Army bill was taken up, disengaging the eight-hour bill.

On motion of Mr. Hawley the provision was stricken out of the bill, that no officer shall receive pay on the retired list while receiving a salary as a Government official.

The committee amendment to strike out the proviso limiting the rates to be paid for transportation on land-grant roads to fifty per cent of the rates charged private parties, and substituting for it a proviso that the rates shall be such as the Secretary of War shall deem just and reasonable, not to exceed seventy per cent of the charges to private parties, was discussed at length and went over.

Adjourned.

House.—The journal was approved without objection. A bill was passed providing for issuing a commission to P. C. Johnston as Rear Admiral. The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Military Academy Appropriation Bill.

The committee having risen, Mr. Dudley, chairman of the committee on investigating the alleged "silver pool," presented a special report of the committee. The report states that a subpoena to appear before the committee was served upon J. A. Owenby, and that said Owenby refused or neglected to obey the subpoena. He asked the Speaker to compel his attendance.

After discussion, an order for Owenby's attendance was issued and the Committee of the Whole resumed its session.

After a long debate of a political character, the committee rose and the House adjourned.

CAPITAL NOTES.

The Sundry Civil Appropriations Larger Than for Years.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The Sundry Civil Bill, as completed by the sub-committee, carries the largest appropriation of any similar bill for many years, footling up more than thirty-six million dollars. This is due to heavy appropriations for public buildings heretofore authorized, harbor improvements, the special appropriation of $700,000 for a Government exhibit at the World's Fair, and the $1,000,000 appropriation for the census.

SICKNESS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Mr. Harrison has nearly recovered from her diphtheritic sore throat, but Mrs. McKee has been taken ill with a severe case of tonsillitis. Dr. Gardner has decided that much of the sickness at the White House is due to the almost continuous presence of large ferns and plants used in decorating the rooms on occasions of public dinners, accumulating an unusual amount of damp.

MR. QUAY WILL REPLY.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.), Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Balloting in joint session for United States Senator was resumed without change. THE OKANAGAN TROUBLE.

Agent Col.'s Report of the Disturbance—Whisky the Cause.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has received a report from Indian Agent Cole of the Colville agency in Washington on the recent trouble with the Okanagan Indians.

It recites the killing of Freighter Cole, the subsequent lynching of an Indian supposed to have committed the murder and the resultant excitement. No further trouble is feared. Agent

Cole says, however, that the whisky traffic must be suppressed, and that very soon, or trouble is likely to ensue from this camp. Agency

Farmer Thomas is authority for the statement that there are at least twenty whisky sellers located along the Okanagan River, near the reservation, who make a living by selling whisky to Indians. The agent asks for authority and funds to rid the country of these pests.

THE ALLIANCE ADJOURNS.

A Government Loan Resolution Adopted Yesterday.

OMAHA (Neb.), Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Chicago was selected as the place for the next meeting of the National Farmers' Alliance. John B. Powers of Nebraska was elected President and August Post of Iowa secretary and treasurer.

The afternoon session was devoted almost exclusively to debate on the following resolution, which was finally passed:

That we, land-owners of the country,

pledge ourselves to demand equal rights with the bankers and others who borrow money from the United States; we demand that the Government loan to individuals an amount of money not exceeding 2 per cent per annum, in sums not exceeding

$3,000 to any one individual, and that the amount loaned be apportioned among the States, counties and townships according to their population.

This resolution, which was introduced by President Powers, was defeated yesterday afternoon, and was reconsidered at today's session, after nearly all its opponents had left under the impression that the business of the convention was over. Adjourned.

residence of Secretary Blaine between the Secretary, Congressman Hitt and

Hon. Edward Farrar, editor of the Toronto Globe and a prominent leader of the Liberal party in Canada. The subject under discussion was that of Canadian reciprocity. Farrar's visit is believed to be for the purpose of obtaining the assurance from party leaders in this country that reciprocity will be acceptable to the United States at this time.

A COMPLETE SUCCESS.

The Government's Second Trial of the Cruiser San Francisco.

VALLEJO, Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The cruiser San Francisco returned to the Navy Yard Wednesday evening from her trial trip. Members of the board of officers that went out to report the result of her trip, and all the officers of the ship, speak in the highest terms of praise regarding the sea-going qualities of the ship. The weather outside was rough, and served well to try her. She passed right along at a speed of eleven or twelve knots without shipping a sea.

MISS CHANNING'S ARTICLE.

Balmy-Airs Not Hostile to Vigor—A Card Party—Raymond Items—Tennis Notes—Personals and Brevilles.

Miss Grace Ellery Channing, one of Pasadena's most gifted writers, has a charming article in Kate Field's Washington of January 21, under the caption, "Are Balmy Airs Hostile to Vigor?"

She begins thus: "A part of our Puritan inheritance is the deep-rooted belief that whatever is pleasant is necessarily bad for us, and whatever is unpleasant is necessarily good for us.

It follows that, when we find ourselves in possession of a good thing, we straightway set about qualifying and making mental reservations as to its value.

There is a region in the United States where, climatically considered, existence is tolerable all the year round; where a temperate sun lights a land of flowers, and soft breezes mingle the breath of the sea and of roses; where summer is but winter in blossom, and winter but summer shrouded in a bud again; where flowers are exuberant, birds riotous, life an abundant miracle, earth a rejoicing revelation, hope eternal, health attainable, and youth possible.

People go there to sigh, and remain to sing—to pray, and remain to pipe. And when they are done with piping and singing they turn around and chant you a parrot chorus of: "Ah, but Southern California is so enchanting! People who live in such climates never accomplish anything! It is demoralizing. It is dolor far niente!"

Miss Channing goes on to say that there is no question of the perfection of the particular garden spot of the earth where Pasadena lives. "They who have dwelt six years in Paradise have their own opinion of its bowers and bazaars. To those who know it not, what words could pain!"

And those who know it, know all words are faint. But it is a question of the relative benefits of lands where life is largely a fight with "weather," and the more genial lands where "climate" as opposed to "weather" predominates.

The writer then inquires "from what nations have we received the richest legacies of the human brain and soul. From the dwellers in harsh climates, or from those countries where, life being something besides a ceaseless struggle with the elements, the soul has had time to blossom?" and she cites the history of nations to show that "art, science, philosophy, statescraft, the matchless craft of war; power, knowledge, beauty; all the grace of living and the strength of life; the poet, the painter, the musician, the scientist, the philosopher, the hero, the saint, have all been cradled in the breast of the sacred South."

Returning to this section, Miss Channing closes thus: "So, once more will the beneficence of nature be demonstrated in a new southernland. Meanwhile, wrapping ourselves in our pneumonias and drawing our nervous prostrations closer about us, we may continue skeptically to inquire: Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?"

Mr. and Mrs. Rose Entertain Their Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Rose very pleasantly entertained a party of friends at cards Wednesday evening at their home on Grand avenue. Whist was played. Partners were chosen in a novel way, each gentleman being given the end of a colored cord which formed a portion of a veritable network of cords, stretching over the entire first floor of the house. At the end of each piece of cord was a card bearing a number corresponding to that held by the different ladies. When the game had been finished elaborate refreshments were served.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hugus, Mrs. Beall of Omaha, Capt. and Mrs. Tompkinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCollin, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. MacLean, Mr. and Mrs. O. Stewart Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. L. The Los Angeles Highway.

The new bridge over the Arroyo at Garvanza and the road laid out on the bed of the old Santa Fé track is completed. The driving public is thereby much benefited, having as short and easy a highway to Los Angeles as over the old road, without the necessity of paying any toll. The new route is even more picturesque than the old one and equally short. If now by any manner of means the County Supervisors could be persuaded to rusticate a trifle on the matter of building approaches to the bridge over the Arroyo near the eastern limit of Los Angeles, driving to that place might be somewhat of a pleasure, and the road could be traveled even at night with some degree of safety.

Intense Suffering in Nebraska.

An urgent appeal has been received here from Kendall T. Scottorn, missionary of the American Sunday School Union at Benkelman, Neb., asking for aid for the poor people in that vicinity. The appeal states that hundreds of unfortunate are living on corn mush, are clothed in tatters, virtually barefooted and exposed to the rigors of a prairie winter, unable even to leave for better parts. Help is asked that will keep men, women and children from starving, and prevent intense suffering from the cold.

The United Samaritan Society of this place has taken the matter in hand, and earnestly solicits contributions of money or clothing, which may be sent at the Presbyterian Chapel next time before Saturday evening.

A peculiarity about the "1891" is that adding the first figure to the second makes the third, and subtracting the fourth figure from the third gives the second. Adding the four figures together give us the number of the century.

A well-known citizen drove up from Los Angeles a few days ago in the early morning hours. He had been going the rounds all night, and when nearing the center of town fatigued overcame him. He went to sleep in his buggy, and awoke to find himself in South Pasadena, in which direction his horse had returned. Out of respect to his family, we refrain from publishing his name.

The Ginkgo Tree in Boston.

No tree, scarcely, excepting the Washington elm at Cambridge, is more famous than the ginkgo tree near the Joy street gate on the common. Dr. Holmes celebrated it, and others often mentioned it; but I notice with pain that its name is often misspelled "jingo." It has never shown signs of fruiting, and for my part I confess that I, until now, had no idea that it is a fruit tree. But Garden and Forest says that the Japanese ginkgo tree does sometimes bear fruit, that a tree planted in the grounds of the military academy of Kentucky produced fruit several years ago, and that one of the trees in Central Park, New York, is now fruitful. A tree in the garden of Charles J. Wistar at Germantown, Pa., now about forty years old, bore a few fruits last year for the first time. The fruit of the ginkgo is somewhat similar to an olive, with a large, hard nut surrounded by thick oily flesh which soon becomes rancid and is very disagreeable. The kernel of the nut, however, has a delicate almond-like flavor much liked by the Japanese, who use great quantities of these seeds as dessert fruit.—Boston Advertiser.

A Lemon Shine for a Busset Shoe.

Before putting away your russet shoes for the winter you will want to restore their old color. How will you do it? Very simply. Just squeeze the juice of a lemon on a bit of soft cloth, give the leather a thorough treatment with this, and see if your shoes don't look as well as they did when you bought them—New York Journal.

The Damron-Chadwick Row Becoming Interesting.

LOCKWOOD STILL IN JAIL.

Crumb Given Quarters at the Castle on the Hill—King's Peculiar Court at Burbank—General Notes.

W. C. Lockwood and J. M. Damron have spent their third consecutive night behind the iron bars of a cell in the County Jail. Neither of them were yesterday able to secure the bonds required of them, and the prospects seem to gradually grow very dim for the distinguished ex-public officials to produce surrenders.

On the contrary, Lockwood's troubles were increased. Frank House and Andrew Osgoodby of Pomona have been on Lockwood's bond for $2500 in the case pending against him charging him with harboring a fugitive from justice. Both of these gentlemen dropped down from Pomona yesterday and called on the District Attorney. They stated that they desired to be released from the bonds. Later in the day their names were withdrawn as sureties. This increased Lockwood's bond to $5000 in the two cases, none of which he as yet has found.

Lockwood denies the honor of the acquaintance of Juro B. and, who prevented a conviction on his first trial, and states that he cannot understand why B. and was not present at the second trial. He admits that he (Lockwood) may be a grand rascal, but claims that all he asks now is a fair show. Any man that would take a paltry $300 under the circumstances that it is alleged Lockwood did is far from "grand rascal."

Ex-Assemblyman Damron rests quietly at the hotel where he is said to have given a statement to the effect that unless certain things come to pass within a certain time something will drop. Any disclosures he can make are awaited with interest by an anxious public.

Damron yesterday sent for District Attorney McLachlan and requested an interview with him. Owing to pressure of court business, the District Attorney was unable to see Damron. His wife, however, has a talk with him later in the day.

When Damron found that the District Attorney could not see him he sent for Jess Hardesty, the ex-Deputy District Attorney. Mr. Hardesty called up at the jail during the afternoon. It was then that Damron was arrested for perjury. The ex-legislator claims that his quandum associate and friend perjured himself when he swore in the proceedings against him for contempt that he went to Mexico. Damron says that Chadwick was in the city all the time. The pot is now engaged in the kitchen while the cook is at the table. Damron within twenty-four hours had developed an abnormal desire to have Chadwick punished for this perjury, although even if Chadwick did swear he was in Mexico, when, as a matter of fact, he was not, the fact was not material to the issue.

The District Attorney has notified both Justice Smith and Justice Austin that he desires to see them again, and has appointed representatives of his office present when Lockwood and Damron present bondsman. The examination of the bondsman, if any are offered, will be taken down in extenso and then there will be no questions about what the parties swore they owned in the event of a forfeiture of bonds. The District Attorney intends to see to it that no straw bonds are furnished by either Lockwood or Damron.

CHARM OF THE DAY.

Among the distinguished personages who are at present lodging at the County Jail, is William Crumb. William joined the party last evening, having been arrested yesterday morning having been gathered at the strong hand of the law, on a charge of having committed the crime of adultery in that he openly cohabited with Nannie Calvert.

There is also a warrant out for Nannie, but she cannot be located and is still at large although her lover is in dungeon ville.

The festive William had completed all of his time in jail, so he was allowed to go to San Pedro and take a steamer for the north. William, after his experience Tuesday evening, when he and Nannie were found in a room in deshabille, concluded that the wind-cold was rising in the East. He had, therefore, decided to depart before hostilities actively opened.

William was angry, sorry and dumbfounded. He was taken before Justice Stanton and arraigned. When he arrived at the courtroom, he assumed a melodramatic air, all the same like the abused man. He was asked if he knew where Mrs. Calvert was. He replied that he did, but that not "even to his dying day" would he reveal her hideous place.

He was asked if he knew where Mrs. Calvert was. He replied that he did, but that not "even to his dying day" would he reveal her hideous place.

This made Isaac Calvert, the complaining witness against Crumb, mad, and he expressed himself strongly. Crumb was placed under $500 bonds to appear for examination. He could not give it, and was lodged in the sheriff's office on the hill. Calvert says that he intends to push the case again—Crumb for all there is in it.

A FUGITIVE COURT.

Another case has come to light showing the remarkable manner in which P. E. Langman got his warrant yesterday morning having been gathered at the strong hand of the law, on a charge of adultery in that he openly cohabited with Nannie Calvert.
